

AETHON

IMAGERY BRIEF

FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHY / FILM TEAM · REV B · JULY 2026 · SYNCED TO AETHON.HOUSE

---

A working brief: what the project is, the intention behind the pictures, and the exact list of assets to create. Please read §1–§5 before shooting; §6–§8 are the production detail and the shot list; Appendix A maps every placeholder frame on the live site.

---

1. THE PROJECT, IN BRIEF

AETHON is a single private seafront residence on the western coast of Paphos, Cyprus (the Faros / lighthouse coast). It is a quiet renovation — a refinement, not a new build — of an existing house (originally one of the Faros Beach Houses): built 2018, renewed/completed 2026. The original architecture is by Vardastudio; the renewal keeps the geometry and refines the light, materials and landscape.

The website is not an estate-agent listing. It is an evergreen, museal brand presence — closer to an architectural monograph than a property page. Tone references: Aman, Tadao Ando. The pictures must carry that register: calm, restrained, unhurried, no real-estate gloss.

The name AETHON (Greek Αἶθων, "the blazing one") and the whole story are built around one fact: the coast faces west, so the evening — the last warm light of the day — is the house's moment.

---

2. THE WEBSITE IS LIVE — USE IT AS THE STORYBOARD

The site these pictures are for is already built and public: <https://aethon.house>. Every photograph's place exists today as a labelled placeholder frame — the caption under each empty frame is the working title of the picture that belongs there. Two things to do before shooting:

- Walk the page once in each light. The * / ☾ control in the top bar switches the whole site between Daylight and Afterglow — the two moods the matched pairs (§3) will animate.
- Walk it once on a phone. Most visitors arrive by QR code at the property, so the mobile page is the primary experience; the hero must survive a tall phone crop as well as a wide desktop one.

There is also a deeper photo-essay at aethon.house/gallery/ — six chapters, twenty-three frames, each already captioned. Appendix A lists every slot on both pages, exactly as built.

---

3. THE CORE IDEA THESE IMAGES MUST SERVE: DAYLIGHT ↔ AFTERGLOW

The site has a Daylight / Afterglow toggle. It is not a dark mode and not a filter — it is meant to reveal the two characters of the same house:

- Daylight — open, airy, outward to sea and sky; materials, horizon, indoor-outdoor living.
- Afterglow — the warm hour after sunset: intimate, sheltered, glowing; architectural lighting, reflections, the house lit from within.

Day = the house in the landscape. Afterglow = the landscape gathered around the house.

This is the single most important production instruction: the key viewpoints must be shot as matched pairs — the same camera position, height, focal length and framing, once in daylight and once in the afterglow — so the site can crossfade between them on the exact same composition. Lock the tripod, shoot the day frame, return for the evening frame without moving. A pair that doesn't register precisely is unusable for the toggle.

---

4. VISUAL DIRECTION

- The hero is the sunset, never the lighthouse. No lighthouse, no beam, no nautical cliché. The "faros" is only a place name.
- Afterglow = warm, not blue. Shoot the evening set in the warm window from sunset into early dusk — golden, amber, the architectural lighting reading at roughly 3000 K (the real scheme is warm, indirect, dimmable). Avoid cool "blue hour." This is a hard brand rule: the site has no blue accent anywhere — "the sea is evoked through light and stone, never blue." A cold blue dusk frame is off-brand.
- Palette to honour (these are the house's real materials — let them lead the colour): marble / travertine / coastal sandstone (warm stones), dark oak & iroko (warm woods), and the single accent: green — olive-green leather and a softer rosemary green. Warm neutrals + green + the warm light. Outdoor shade sails are warm sand / oyster-white, never stark white.
- Celebrate the signature spatial move — the threshold dissolves: the ground floor's glazed walls slide fully back so the living and entertaining rooms, the ~10 m pool (laid against the house, with a shallow sun-shelf), the garden and the sea read as one space. Frame this continuity wherever possible (open glazing, the eye carried from inside → pool → garden → western horizon). There is also a planted internal courtyard (garden brought inside) worth capturing.
- Mood over inventory. Reduction, negative space, stillness. Comfort is felt, not demonstrated — no gadgetry: no visible tech, screens, switches, thermostats, speakers, CCTV, solar panels. No "feature" shots.
- People: keep it about architecture and light. No identifiable people or owners; at most a distant, anonymous, atmospheric presence — and only if it adds calm, not lifestyle.

5. HARD GUARDRAILS (PLEASE RESPECT — PRIVACY & BRAND)

Do

- Lead with light, stone, water, green, horizon, the western evening.
- Leave calm negative space (the site overlays text on the hero — see §6).
- Keep everything warm-neutral and quiet.

Don't

- × No exact address, street signs, house numbers, neighbours' houses, or anything that pinpoints the location. This is a private home.
- × Strip GPS / EXIF location from every delivered file (or confirm we may). Do not post the originals anywhere public. (The site itself serves only metadata-stripped, downsized copies.)
- × No blue / cold colour grade; no blue-hour as the evening look (use warm afterglow).
- × No lighthouse, no beam, no nautical motifs.
- × No real-estate conventions: no wide-angle distortion, no HDR "flare," no twilight composite look, no staged "lifestyle," no superlatives in captions.
- × No visible technology, security, or solar hardware.

6. TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION

Matched-pair method (the priority): for every Tier-1 viewpoint, deliver a -day and an -evening frame from an identical locked-off setup. Same lens, same height, same framing. The site stacks them and crossfades.

Timing of the evening set: from a few minutes before sunset through the warm afterglow (~20–40 min after). Stop before the sky goes cold/blue.

Format & resolution: deliver high-resolution masters (long edge  $\geq 2400$  px, larger welcome), sRGB, minimal/neutral grading. The website runs its own optimisation pipeline (modern formats, responsive sizes, metadata stripped) — we need clean masters, not web exports.

Aspect ratios by slot (compose with room to crop a little; Appendix A gives the frame-by-frame list):

| SLOT                                         | RATIO                            | NOTES                                                                                                                               |
|----------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Hero                                         | landscape ~3:2 / 16:9, croppable | a calmer area on the left for the headline; light/interest to the right; must also survive a tall phone crop                        |
| Social / link-preview master                 | crops to 1200 × 630 (≈1.91:1)    | one frame — warm afterglow register — that stays legible at thumbnail size; likely the hero-evening or west-elevation-evening frame |
| Establishing film plate ( The place ) | 21:9                             | wide, situating; stills or a slow film                                                                                              |
| West elevation                               | 21:9, shoot loose                | the signature exterior; also used as a full-height page-break plate, so keep generous sky/foreground                                |

| SLOT                                                         | RATIO     | NOTES                                         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|-----------------------------------------------|
| Standard view frames (living · pool · terrace · interior...) | 16:10     |                                               |
| Portrait frames (the olives · the lit olive)                 | 4:5       |                                               |
| Material detail                                              | 3:1 band  | close texture (stone · olive leather · iroko) |
| Gallery feature plates                                       | 21:9      | one per chapter, full-bleed                   |
| Gallery standard / portrait                                  | 3:2 / 4:5 | —                                             |

Already done — do NOT reshoot: the 8 material macro swatches, the two floor-plan renders, and the concept sketch (see Tier 4) are finished and wired. Materials: marble, patiti (hand-pressed lime plaster), travertine, coastal sandstone, olive-green leather, rosemary green, dark oak, iroko.

7. THE SHOT LIST

Pairs marked [D+E] need both a daylight and an afterglow frame from the same setup. Single-state shots note which state. Captions in quotes are the live placeholder labels — the working titles.

TIER 1 — THE TOGGLE'S HEART (DO THESE FIRST)

1. Hero — the establishing portrait of the house to the western sea. [D+E] Day: bright façade, open glazing, sea/sky. Evening: the façade lit warm from within against the afterglow. The evening frame is also the likely social master (§6).
2. West elevation (21:9, loose). [D+E] One locked-off pair serves three slots at different crops: the Views frame "West elevation · sunset", the full-bleed page-break "The house, toward the western sea", and the gallery's evening-chapter feature.
3. Living, toward the sea (16:10). [D+E] Glazing slid back; the eye carried inside → pool → garden → horizon. Also the gallery's chapter-II feature.
4. The pool (16:10). [D+E] Day: the sheet of water, sun-shelf, mirroring sky ("The pool, mirroring the sky"). Evening: "The pool, at dusk" — glowing softly at its edges, warm reflections.

TIER 2 — SECTION PLATES & THE REMAINING VIEW FRAMES

1. "Ancient olives, the dry garden" (16:10). The garden section's plate — day-led; sculptural old olives, the dry planting.
2. The olives, portrait (4:5, two frames). Day: "The garden, sculptural olives". Evening: "The lit olive, after dark" — a single old olive lit from below. A matched pair on one tree is welcome but two different compositions are fine.
3. "The terrace, under shade sails" (16:10). Day-led; the warm-sand sails (never stark white). An evening frame ("The terrace, golden hour") is welcome for the gallery.

- 4. The interior / the withdraw (16:10). [D+E] Day: natural light, a calm room to the sea. Evening: "The interior, lit from within" / "Lit from within, at evening" — a low warmth, intimate, the house keeping its own evening.
- 5. "The afterglow — lit from within" (full-bleed page-break). The house glowing at dusk, seen from outside — may fall out of the west-elevation evening frame, or be its own setup.
- 6. The internal courtyard (4:5 or 16:10). The garden brought inside — day-led.
- 7. Material detail band (3:1). Static; close texture in warm raking daylight.

TIER 3 — THE /GALLERY/ PHOTO-ESSAY (SIX CHAPTERS; CAN FOLLOW LATER)

The chapters, as titled on the live page: The approach → Where the house opens → The western frame (garden & terrace) → The house's moment (the afterglow showpiece) → Upstairs, turned down → The palette, in detail. Appendix A2 lists all twenty-three captioned frames. Much of it falls out of Tiers 1–2 at different crops; the gallery-only setups are: the approach / the threshold / first light in the entrance, dining at the long table, the kitchen in stone and oak, cypress verticals, the terrace at golden hour, last light on the water, a room toward the sea, the stair rising, and a bedroom turned down to a glow.

OPTIONAL — MOTION (ONLY IF COMMISSIONED)

- Hero ambient loop: short, muted, seamless loop; minimal motion (sea light, stirring olive leaves). Will be gated behind reduced-motion and fall back to the still; the mobile hero stays a still by design.
- Establishing film ("Establishing film · the western coast at sunset", 21:9): slow, deliberate, situating the house on the western coast at sunset. Never aimless drone hovering. A day and an evening version mirror the toggle.

TIER 4 — ARTIFACTS (CURATED STILL-LIFES, THE "VITRINE")

Treated like museum objects, not product shots: an isolated, tactile piece on a neutral warm-stone ground, raking / directional light to reveal texture, shot as a consistent set (same background, same light angle, same distance) so the series reads as one collection. These are the materials of the house, in the hand — they fill the gallery's sixth chapter (The palette, in detail).

| ARTIFACT                     | LIVE CAPTION                            | NOTES                                                             |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Patiti (πατιτή) lime plaster | "Patiti, pressed into waves"            | a hand-pressed sample, the wave structure caught in side light    |
| Stone + olive leather        | "Travertine and olive leather"          | the warm stone against the signature green leather (Nordic Grain) |
| Iroko & dark oak             | "Iroko, close at hand"                  | an end-grain or a joinery edge of the real woodwork               |
| Rosemary-green fabric        | "Rosemary green, in fabric"             | a single draped fold of the curtain / upholstery cloth            |
| The set together             | "The palette in the hand"               | stone + leather + iroko arranged in one frame                     |
| Found objects                | "Of the coast — rosemary, olive, stone" | a sprig of rosemary, an olive branch, a pale cliff pebble         |

Never dimensioned drawings, spec sheets, or hardware that reads as a "feature."

Already in hand — the concept sketch. Cliff Tan's (Dear Modern) hand perspective is wired on the live site in The interior — "Concept sketch — the rooms, from within" — uncropped, toned into the site's palette. It is the model for this tier: an authored, atmospheric artifact, never a technical drawing. Do not reshoot.

8. DELIVERY & HAND-OFF

- Deliver masters + RAW via a private transfer (not a public link), and please don't post the frames anywhere public — the site publishes only metadata-stripped, downsized copies, and the house stays unlocatable.
- Naming: use the slot slugs with a state suffix, e.g. `hero-day` / `hero-evening` , `west-elevation-day` / `west-elevation-evening` , `living-sea-day` / `living-sea-evening` , `pool-day` / `pool-evening` , `interior-day` / `interior-evening` , `garden-olives` , `olive-lit` , `terrace` , `courtyard` , `material-detail` , `og` (the social master), and for the photo-essay `gallery-<chapter>-<subject>` (e.g. `gallery-arrival-threshold` ).
- We run the optimisation pipeline and wire the pairs into the site's crossfade — clean masters are all we need.
- Scale of a complete delivery: the two pages hold roughly 25–30 unique setups; with the matched pairs that is ~35 delivered selects. Reuse across pages is expected — the same west-elevation pair serves the front page, the Views grid and the gallery at different crops.
- Questions / approvals: mail@aethon.house.

Thank you — the whole site turns on the western light; these pictures are how a visitor will finally understand why the house is called AETHON.

APPENDIX A — EVERY LIVE SLOT, EXACTLY AS BUILT

The caption printed on each placeholder is the working title; captions may be refined to the delivered frames. All frames sit in both Daylight and Afterglow; [D+E] marks the slots wired to crossfade a matched pair.

A1 — THE FRONT PAGE (AETHON.HOUSE)

| # | WHERE ON THE PAGE         | LIVE LABEL / CAPTION                                                 | RATIO                      | STATE                       |
|---|---------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1 | Hero (top of page)        | Daylight / Afterglow · forthcoming                            | full-viewportlandscape | [D+E]                       |
| 2 | The place                 | Establishing film · the western coast at sunset · forthcoming | 21:9                       | film or still; day → sunset |
| 3 | The architecture          | The living spaces, toward the sea · forthcoming               | 16:10                      | [D+E]                       |
| 4 | Page-break after The plan | The house, toward the western sea · forthcoming               | full-bleed                 | [D+E]                       |
| 5 | The garden                | Ancient olives, the dry garden · forthcoming                  | 16:10                      | day                         |

| #  | WHERE ON THE PAGE           | LIVE LABEL / CAPTION                                 | RATIO      | STATE              |
|----|-----------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|------------|--------------------|
| 6  | The interior                | Lit from within, at evening · forthcoming     | 16:10      | evening            |
| 7  | Page-break before Materials | The afterglow — lit from within · forthcoming | full-bleed | [D+E], evening-led |
| 8  | Views                       | West elevation · sunset                       | 21:9 wide  | [D+E]              |
| 9  | Views                       | Living, toward the sea                        | 16:10      | [D+E]              |
| 10 | Views                       | The pool, at dusk                             | 16:10      | [D+E]              |
| 11 | Views                       | The garden, sculptural olives                 | 4:5 tall   | day                |
| 12 | Views                       | The lit olive, after dark                     | 4:5 tall   | evening            |
| 13 | Views                       | The terrace, under shade sails                | 16:10      | day                |
| 14 | Views                       | The interior, lit from within                 | 16:10      | evening            |
| 15 | Views                       | Material detail                               | 3:1 band   | day, raking light  |

(Plus the invisible sixteenth: the social / link-preview master, cropping to 1200 × 630 — usually the hero-evening frame.)

A2 — THE GALLERY (AETHON.HOUSE/GALLERY/)

| CHAPTER                      | FRAMES (LIVE CAPTIONS)                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I · The approach.            | Approach · the western coast (feature 21:9) · The threshold (3:2) · First light in the entrance (3:2)                                                                                                           |
| II · Where the house opens.  | Living, toward the sea (feature 21:9) · Dining, at the long table · The kitchen, in stone and oak · The pool, mirroring the sky (all 3:2)                                                                       |
| III · The western frame.     | Sculptural olives (4:5) · Cypress verticals (4:5) · The terrace, under shade sails (3:2) · The lit olive, after dark (3:2)                                                                                      |
| IV · The house's moment.     | West elevation · sunset (feature 21:9) · The terrace, golden hour (3:2) · Last light on the water (3:2)                                                                                                         |
| V · Upstairs, turned down.   | A room, toward the sea · The stair, rising · Evening, turned to a glow (all 3:2)                                                                                                                                |
| VI · The palette, in detail. | Patiti, pressed into waves · Travertine and olive leather · Iroko, close at hand · Rosemary green, in fabric · The palette in the hand · Of the coast — rosemary, olive, stone (all 3:2 — the Tier-4 artifacts) |